FEAD is the European Federation representing the European waste management industry. FEAD's members are national waste management associations covering 20 Member States. They have an approximate 60% share in the household waste market and handle more than 75% of industrial and commercial waste in Europe. Their combined annual turnover is approximately € 54 billion.

FEAD represents about 3000 companies with activities in all forms of waste management. These companies employ over 295000 people who operate around 1800 recycling and sorting centres, 1100 composting sites, 260 waste-to-energy plants and 1100 controlled landfills. They play an important role in the determination of the best environmental option for waste management problems.

The Dutch Waste Management Association (DWMA) has around 50 members. It represents the interests of Dutch waste companies throughout the whole waste chain on a national and international level. Its members are engaged in the collection, processing, recycling, reuse, sorting, anaerobic digestion and composting, incineration and landfilling of waste. The membership also includes companies active in sewage maintenance. The Association represents about two-thirds of the Dutch waste market.

The DWMA works for a healthy and balanced business climate in the Netherlands and Europe and promotes efficient, practicable and sustainable waste management. The DWMA represents its members in negotiations with government and other organisations.
